

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSSION AND SUGGESTION

This chapter presents the conclusion and suggestion of the research. After getting the finding, finally can conclude this research. The conclusion made the analysis of data while the suggestion is given. The explanation is as follows:

A. CONCLUSSION

Study is the one of tool to get new knowledges. Every student have different standard to study and get new knowledges. But, there are many factors that influence the students to study. The teachers always crave that their students easy to study, but sometime this pretention is difficult to establish. Based on the research problem and explanation have been given in the chapter four, study about foreign language is not easy. There are some factors that influence in the process of study. In this research, there are five factors discouraging students from learning English language. 1) the teacher, 2) motivation, 3) learner characteristic, 4) school facilities, and 5) a learner's attitude toward the English language.

From the factors, the teacher was a source of discouraging factors for almost half of them. The discourage aspect of the teacher were related to his or her teaching methods, lack of competence, and personality. Motivation was the second source of discouraging factors. The next factor is school facilities. The discourage aspect of school facilities is learning material and time schedule. Learning material is text books and workbook. The discourage aspect of time schedule is scheduling of classes and dissatisfaction with the classroom. Learner characteristic was the third source of discouraging factors. The discourage aspect of learner characteristic is poor of English skill. School environment was the fourth source of discouraging factors. The last factor is a learner's attitude toward the English language.

Understanding the issues relating English learning, is an important step to make students enjoy study English and make the teacher the strong influence to the students in learning English language.

B. SUGGESTION

After showing the conclusion, as a final point to increase the research has some suggestion for the teachers, students and other researcher.

For teachers, as instructors in language classes, they should guide and find the best strategies for instructing learners in language learning. They must make them enjoy and become active or successful learners, so that they will not become lost learners.

For students, if you feel lost spirit, look for alternatives that make you the spirit of learning. Students who want to become successful learners, learners should apply and develop their own learning styles and improve their skills. Not only from the environment, but also the struggle and high desire to learn.

For other researchers, they can use this research as a reference for further research with similar variables and designs, but must complement and make the contents of subsequent research better and reduce the limitations of research, for example, subsequent researchers must find other factors that affect the loss of spirit in learn a language.