The title of this research is "The Application of Cooperative Learning In Group Investigation to Develop Grammar Ability Of The First Grade Students At MAN Nglawak Kertosono.". The fact emerging from the preliminary study done at MAN Nglawak Kertosono, the students have low ability in English, and most students were passive and not enthusiastic in the learning and teaching process. To cope with the problems, the researcher applies Group Investigation method. With such.

The subject of this study is a CAR (Classroom Action Research) study is the first grade students of MAN Nglawak Kertosono in the Academic Year of 2012. There were 28 students of the first grade of MAN Nglawak Kertosono. The are planning, implementing, observing and then reflecting. The next phase teachers implement cooperative learning model of Group Investigation (GI), a rare-steps as follows:

1) Identify the topic and group formation, 2) Planning for learning tasks, 3) Starting the investigation, 4) Prepare a final report, 5) Present the final results report, and 6) Evaluate

Group Investigation method brought significant improvement on the students' involvement and achievement. Cycle 1 32,14% students got success in the treatments so, in the cycle 2 become 75%, it increase about 42,86%.
