ABSTRACT

Nursasi ,2012. The Correlation Between Personality and Speaking Skill of Second Semester Students of English Department of STAIN Kediri. Thesis, The English Department, Faculty of Education, STAIN Kediri. Advisor: (I) Fathor Rasyid.M.Pd and (II) Nur Afifi.M.App.Ling

Key word: personality, self-esteem, anxiety, speaking skill.

English is one of international languages. English has an important role in the world development, such as in communication, changing information, research and study, technology, etc. Therefore people in the world are motivated to master English especially who consider it as the second language. They think if they do not master English, they will not be able to follow the development the world. But the students often find some problems in their speaking and achievement, this problem have internal factor (personality, aptitude, motivation, attitude, etc.) and external factor (family, teacher, peer, learning situation, etc.). The problem frequently found is that their native language makes them difficult to use the foreign language . Here the researcher want to know “ Is there any coorrelation between personalty (self-esteem and anciety) and English speaking skill of second semester students’ of STAIN Kediri

This study is conducted to find out the correlation between personality and speaking skill. To know its correlation, it is used multiple correlation method, because in this study, there are two dependent variables. There are self-esteem and anxiety, and independent has variable speaking skill. The study involved 91 students from 123 second semester of English Department of STAIN Kediri on May till June 2012. The data are collected through questionnaire, and test.

The questionnaires are needed to get data about second semester students’ personality (self-esteem and anxiety) and test are needed to get data about second semester students speaking skill. Then from those data are correlated and analyzed by using multiple correlations. Analysis of the correlation between personality and speaking skill resulted in the finding that: there are correlation between self-esteem and speaking ability which has positive correlation 0,028 and there are negative correlation between anxiety and speaking skill -0,060 anxiety. The research finding shows that there are correlation between personality and speaking skill.
