

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTIONS

Drawing conclusions is the last step of writing a study. In this chapter, the researcher presents the conclusions based on the research questions. This chapter is the summary of the finding of the research that have been discussed on the previous chapter. The writer also presents suggestions for some people who related with this study.

A. Conclusions

The conclusions are the answer of the formulated research questions from the data display in the previous chapter. The researcher can draw some points of conclusions from this novel.

1. Grammatical cohesion was found by researcher from this novel. The grammatical cohesion include ~~of~~ Substitution, Ellipsis, Reference and Conjunction. Substitutions of grammatical cohesion from this novel are 14 data which can find by researcher. Ellipses of Grammatical cohesion from this novel are 13 data which can find by researcher. References of grammatical cohesion from this novel are 30 data which can find by researcher. Researcher just takes one example in every chapter in different people and different occasion. Conjunctions of grammatical cohesion are 83 data from this novel which can find researcher include three point of the function of conjunction. The function of conjunction here are addition, temporality, causality.

2. The second concern is the most dominant of grammatical cohesion. The researcher found the most dominant grammatical from this novel. The most dominant of grammatical cohesion from Torey's the Tiger's Child novel is conjunction. Researcher found 83 conjunctions which Torey used in her novel. The conjunction has three function bases on Haliday and Hassan theory. The functions are addition, temporality and causality. Researcher takes three examples which can represent from those functions in one chapter in Torey's the Tiger's Child novel.
3. The third concern is the possible reason of the most dominant grammatical cohesion in Torey's the Tiger's Child novel. The possible reason of the most dominant grammatical cohesion in Torey's the Tiger's Child novel is the correlation between the function of the conjunction and the story in this novel. The function of conjunction is temporally which makes sequence between past and present story. Absolutely the temporality will be used in conjunction grammatical cohesion to make this novel coherence. The second function is cause and effect which was applied in this novel by writer to explain to the reader about cause and effect from this story. It makes the story balance, coherent and understandable to get the message of the story. The last function is additional which make sentence to be coherence and understandable.

B. Suggestions

After analyzing and summarizing, the researcher recommends some suggestions to the readers, next researchers, and education

1. To the readers

In accordance with the findings of this research, the writer expects this research can enrich the reader's knowledge about the Grammatical Cohesion. The writer intends to explain that everything around us can become the subject of research. A novel is one thing around us which not only has a function of entertaining but it also become the subject of research.

2. To the next researchers

The writer expects that the reader who will become the next researcher will be able to apply the theory of Grammatical Cohesion in different object like newspaper, TV show, advertisement, debate and many others. The writer also expects the next researcher to improve in term of Grammatical Cohesion study by using different theory such like theory of relevance.

3. To the students

The student will know how to analyze grammatical cohesion and discuss it. And the student can apply some theory to analyzing grammatical cohesion in a novel. Student can improve their knowledge. It is not just in a novel but also in television, journal, and etc.
