Appendices 2. Synopsis of A Street Cat Named Bob

This is a story about the friendship of a cat and a young busker in the city of London. James, the man's name, found Bob, a male cat, in the corridor of his apartment door. James helps Bob, who is injured. After several unsuccessful attempts to let the cat go, James then decided to adopt Bob. Although initially filled with doubts because James himself was recovering from drug addiction, Bob's presence was able to make James put his life back in order. Bob's presence made James start to pay attention to him. He was determined to be clean from the influence of drugs. Bob also makes James feel responsible. So, the friendship between them has been strong since then.

Bob and James are like twins, they both understand each other in their own way. For James, Bob reminds him of himself. Bob is a stray cat, who probably spends his days on the road. Like Bob, James also spends his days on the street. And life on the street is never certain. So, both of them are always prepared to accept the unexpected. Disputes, disputes, harassment always come. The big change brought by Bob was making James realize that he was starting to be able to trust and believe in other people. The generosity and kindness people show Bob makes James rediscover the good side of humanity.

A touching story. This book teaches us that grace can be obtained from anywhere. Animals, plants and natural beauty bring out the human sides in us that are sometimes lost in the sea of busyness. This book was written by James himself and is among the best selling books in his country.
