ABSTRACT

Ulaa, Muhammad Mubtadi'ul. The Correlation between Reading Comprehension and Translation Ability of The Tenth Bilingual Class of MAN Kunir Wonodadi Blitar. Kediri, English Department, faculty of education, STAIN Kediri, 2016. Advisor 1 Dr. Mukhammad Abdullah, M.Ag, advisor 2 Dr. Ary Setya Budhi Ningrum, M.Pd.

Key Words: correlation, reading comprehension, translation ability.

Reading is the most important skill in the academic context. It is quite clear why reading is important skill since the students who cannot read and comprehend a written language cannot be expected to be good in other content areas which will absolutely require reading ability. How well the students' comprehension can be seen on how well their translation is. When the students do not read the text better, they will get difficulties in translating.

The objective of this research to find out whether there is a significant correlation between the reading comprehension and the translation ability of the tenth bilingual class of MAN Kunir Wonodadi Blitar.

This method used in this research is correlation research. Variable X is the reading comprehension and variable Y is the translation ability. The population is the bilingual class of the tenth grade students of MAN Kunir Wonodadi Blitar and the sample is X Mia-1 class. The writer gave two test. The first is test to know the reading comprehension, and the second is test to know the translation ability. Then, the data are analyzed by using Kendall's tau Correlation to know the correlation between the reading comprehension and the translation ability.

The result of the research shows that there is a significant correlation between the reading comprehension and the translation ability of the tenth bilingual students of MAN Kunir Wonodadi Blitar. It based on the result of the calculation that coefficient correlation is 0.429 with the predict value is 18%. It is categorized as average correlation. Thus, it can be predicted that the students who have the higher score in reading comprehension test; they tend to have higher score in translation ability.
