

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

This chapter presented about the conclusion of the research and suggestion for the teacher, students, and the other researcher. For more explanation of each part will be described as follows.

A. Conclusion

After conducting the research and analyzing the data, some conclusions can be drawn by the researcher as the results of the study in the tenth grader of SMAN 1 Papar in academic year 2017/2018 on the improving students' writing skill in writing recount text. Based on the data, it can be concluded that the implementation of diary writing is believed to be an effective way to improve the students' writing skills. This study was applied in two cycles and each cycle was held in two meetings.

In the first cycle, the implementation of diary writing is not successful yet. It can be seen from the test results after the implementation. It shows that only 33.33% students who pass the test, while the rest are not. Even though the results are good but it still cannot reach the criteria of success. Moreover, some problems that caused the failure are found in reflection. Some of the students seemed confused and cannot understand about writing a diary itself because the structure is quite different with the general recount text. In addition, some of them also could not find the appropriate vocabulary or tense to use in their writing. As a result, most of their writing was in low score.

In second cycle, the implementation of diary writing is success. The results of their test shows a better results that the first cycle. It shows that 86.11% students who pass the test, while the rest are not. It is because the problems were found in the first cycle did not happen again in this cycle. Furthermore, the activities within two meetings in the second cycle focused on practicing and emphasizing their knowledge. The students also enjoyed classroom activities because the media used was fun. In conclusion, their writing showed better results than the first cycle.

By keeping a diary, the students developed their writing skills or at least they wrote better day by day because it gave them more opportunities to write freely whatever they want to write about. Through diary writing, the students can have more spaces and chances to write what is relevant to their own life. Moreover, the implementation of diary writing can be used to develop all aspects of writing recount text; they are content, organization, vocabulary, language used, and mechanic. (see Chapter 4). Furthermore, diary writing also can be an effective way to introduce to students to get them to be familiar with the writing process. So, they will encourage to write frequently on their own. In addition, students will develop their writing skills or at least they will write better day by day because it gives them more opportunities to write freely whatever they want to write about.

B. Suggestion

After conducting this action research, the researcher proposes the suggestions for English teacher, students, and next researcher as presented below.

1. For English teacher

It is important for the English teacher, especially the teacher of SMAN 1 Papar to consider at giving more attention on the students' writing skill. The teacher could use the diary writing as one of the technique to provide more writing practices to the students, both in the classroom and outside the classroom. Since writing is a skill, the more students write, the better their writing will be.

2. For students

Students should be more active in learning English lesson. It is because English is one of the important lesson that can help the students to be contacted with the world. So, in the teaching learning process, they should study hard by developing their motivation to study. Moreover, students should be obligated to bring dictionary in every English class to help them recognizing every word they found. Furthermore, they should practice more in their daily life to write as many as possible in simple or informal media, such as social media, diary writing, or formal writing.

3. For next researchers

The results of this study can be used as one of references for the next researchers who want to conduct a similar study related to the use of diary writing. They can conduct the researcher with the same method but in other types of text. The researcher hopes that the next researchers can prepare everything as good as possible in doing research and can follow up this research.