CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

This chapter present the conclusion based on the finding and discussion in previous chapter and the suggestion for next research.

A. Conclusion

Based on the findings and discussions kinds of visual grammar on the procedure texts appear in three types of visual grammar namely representational meaning, interactional meaning and compositional meaning. The procedure texts present mostly the interactional meaning in comparison compositional meaning and representational meaning. This comparison is quite ideal because procedure texts in an Indonesian EFL textbook context are aimed at focusing more on the use of pictures while explaining the procedures on the text.

Furthermore, the representation of representational meaning in the procedure texts has some differences. First, representational meaning in the procedure texts is represented by narrative process and conceptual process. Next, interactional meaning in the procedure texts is represented by contact, social distance and attitude. The compositional meaning in the procedure texts is represented by information value, salience and framing.

B. Suggestion

By revising the conclusion of this study, the researcher offers a suggestion related to the visual grammar on the procedure texts in an

Indonesian EFL textbook. The next research should be completed by senses of visual grammar and elements of visual grammar which can show from the textbook in speaking material or in writing materials. Further, the next researcher can also analyze more than one genre of reading materials on the textbook or may be analyze on speaking and writing materials on the textbook. The next researcher can analyze from another Indonesian EFL textbook which are published by Ministry of Education and Culture and others resources.
