

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

In this chapter, the researcher provides a conclusion after presenting the findings and discussion in the previous chapter. The conclusion discusses the research questions raised in this study.

A. Conclusion

The role of ChatGPT for students was not limited to feedback and language practice. The role of ChatGPT in analyzing grammatical errors was also very helpful for students learning academic writing. This had been proven by students who had had ChatGPT correct their grammar mistakes in their academic writing. In addition to correcting grammar mistakes, ChatGPT also provided direct language practice to students by providing direct answers.

The ChatGPT challenge was about the responses given by ChatGPT to the commands entered by students to do the task. Many students agreed about the high level of plagiarism of the responses generated by ChatGPT. This made students have to paraphrase the results of ChatGPT, and not a few students rechecked the results of ChatGPT manually so that the level of plagiarism produced was not too high. This also affected the academic field which required students to use scientific language and minimize the level of plagiarism so that it could be said to be an original writing from the student. Almost all students stated that they were addicted to using ChatGPT, one of which was to improve their academic writing skills.

For the conclusion of this study, it was evident that students could have leveraged ChatGPT to enhance their writing abilities. However, while the AI tool provided valuable assistance, students were not immediately able to fully utilize the generated output. Instead, they had to carefully examine and refine the results provided by ChatGPT to ensure their suitability for their specific writing tasks. This suggested that while ChatGPT could be a helpful tool, it was not a substitute for critical thinking and human judgment in the writing process.

B. Suggestion

1. For Students

When using ChatGPT, you have to be wiser, not just copy and paste the answers from ChatGPT, but you also have to recheck and filter the use of vocabulary and grammar.

2. For Teachers

The role of ChatGPT in analyzing syntactic blunders is additionally exceptionally accommodating for understudies in scholastic composing. Through this investigation of linguistic mistakes, understudies are able to type in well and accurately.

3. For future researcher

Future researcher who wish to pursue research related to this title may try to investigate the possible impact that ChatGPT may have on academic writing.
