

CHAPTER V CONCLUSION

A. Conclusion

From the data processing and analysis that has been carried out in this study, it can be concluded as follows:

1. QS Al-Muzzammil verses 1-10 according to tafsir Al-Misbah does not directly say that the verse is spiritual intelligence but contains indicators of spiritual intelligence. Namely how to become someone who can achieve the nickname as spiritually intelligent.
2. The indicators of spiritual intelligence contained in Surah Al-Muzzammil verses 1-10 which are in line with Ary Ginanjar Agustian's theory are four indicators: 1) having compassion, based on the incident of insulting the Prophet Muhammad by the Quraysh at Darun Nadwah 2) self-awareness, being the main supporting factor for the formation of spiritual intelligence 3) a positive attitude, through the daily life of the Prophet Muhammad who was very busy during the day for world affairs 4) patience and mental endurance, reflected by the Prophet Muhammad when there were many ridicule and insults while preaching. Meanwhile, there is one indicator contained in surah al-Muzzammil that cannot be aligned with the ESQ Model theory, but is found in the interpretation of Qur'an by Quraish Shihab, namely reading the Qur'an slowly, as a process of finding the meaning of life.

B. Sugestion

Suggestions for Qur'anic learners to always try and strive to develop themselves thoroughly, not only intellectually but also spiritually. Making worship and self-reflection a routine will help strengthen inner calm and focus in learning. Patience and consistency also need to be instilled in order to be able to face challenges during the process of studying.

Suggestions for future researchers, if in this thesis there is something that is not quite right and then at a later time there is some new data that is different and more valid, then the author's opinions and conclusions can be refined again. The author is very aware that this thesis has many shortcomings and needs a lot of improvement. The discussion that may be very limited also does not deny the existence of some about the subject matter in this case that is missed. Therefore, research that focuses on one theme and one interpretation can be expanded to enrich scientific insights and produce more maximum findings.
