

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

In this chapter contains about conclusion and suggestion. In this part, researcher also gives some suggestions for others and especially the further researcher.

A. Conclusion

Steve Jobs is the main character of the movie Jobs, he was the founder of the Apple Computer. With his characteristics including Toughness and his Leadership, he could bring the company into golden era where many people were interested with his products. Apple Computer itself was Personal Computer so that everyone can use it in school or house. In connection with the Steve Jobs' moment of toughness, there are several points that have been explained in the research finding. Also, there are several points of Steve Jobs' moments in making the Apple Computer that have been also explained in the research finding.

B. Suggestion

Based on the research result, the researcher would give some suggestions for the further researcher. The readers, who are interested to research a person's biography. They can use biopic and add other references to support the research. Other references such as biography books, article journals, and movie's script.

This research also probably for the reader's reference of research figure especially Steve Jobs who was tough and his moments in making the Apple Computer. Its value of his characteristic can be taken by whom want to see deeply about the Steve Jobs.

In a nutcase, after doing this research, the researcher recognizes that there are still many weakness. This research still needs deep attention and correction. Hopefully, this research can be reference for the further research in the same topic about Steve Jobs.