ABSTRACT

Hidayati, Nur. 2021. Students' Perception and Needs Analysis on the Use of Online English Learning during Covid-19 Pandemic. English Language Education, Faculty of Education and Teacher Training, State Islamic Institute of Kediri, 2021. Advisors: 1.) Dr. Ary Setya Budhi N., M. Pd. 2.) Nurul Aini, M. Pd.

Keywords: students' perception, needs analysis, online English learning, COVID-19

The research questions of this research are “What is the students' perception to the use of online English learning during COVID-19 pandemic?” and “What are the students' need to support online English learning during Covid-19 pandemic?” The objective of this research is to describe and identify the students' perception and needs to the use of online English learning during COVID-19 pandemic.

The subjects of this research are students of SMA Negeri 2 Kediri in grade eleven with random sample. The analysis method used in this study was descriptive research. The data were collected using questionnaire and interview. A total of 116 students answered the questionnaire and 40 students were interviewed in this research.

The result of the survey showed that the use of online English learning during COVID-19 pandemic got negative responses. Most participants revealed that online English learning gave them some challenges. The most challenge that they face is having lower understanding about the English material because of less explanation, unstable signal when having English online class, irregular schedule, uninteresting learning, unsupportive learning environment and low motivation. Meanwhile, based on the need analysis result, most students need stable signal, internet data, e-books of English material, supporting devices, more detail explanation from teacher and fun learning activity to support the online English learning during COVID-19 pandemic.
