DEDICATION

- Like a man sailing through the sea who does not know where to go, does not know where the wind will blow. Both parents are like a boat where they will keep the passengers safely to the destination. Thank you to my parents, who have supported me even though I am unsure of myself. Thank you for being so patient in helping me financially and morally.
- Thank you very much for the support system my beloved friend is staying up late every night, Faiqotusssana, S. Hum, who always encourages and gives laughter on gloomy days. Thanks to Durrotul Maknuna, S.Si. Who always present as a fresh breeze when the storm loses others. Thank you to Fariza Amanatul Ummah, S. Farm, who is very kind and good at helping this thesis as an editor. Without the help of the three of you, my journey in doing this final task will feel very dull and heavy.
- My beloved lecturers at IAIN Kediri, especially my advisors, Dr. Toyyibah, SS. M. Pd, and Nur Afifi, M. App. Ling, Ph. D. There is something beyond language. I thank you and forgive me for my stupidity. A thousand thanks for your guidance, valuable advice, and suggestion to make my thesis better.
- Then thank you to all my master's degree friends in 2020. We started this journey not knowing each other but ended up being a family. Although studying online and rarely meeting in person, during this 2-years trip, I found much new learning about the meaning of friendship. Special thanks to my grumpy friends Riana Arum Sari, S. Pd and Dian Eka S, S.Pd.

- Lastly, I want to thank myself for not giving up when times are tough and keeping positive thoughts about whatever happened, even though things are down and very difficult. Thank you for being in you today. Hopefully, you update your value in the future, and please be kind to yourself.

ABSTRACT

SIAM, BINTI ROIFATUS, 2022, “Challenges and Strategies on Teaching Narrative Reading through Blended Learning in MTs Darul Hikmah Jabon Nganjuk”, Department of English Language Education, School of Graduate Program, State Islamic Institute of Kediri, Advisors: 1. Dr. Toyyibah, SS. M.Pd. 2. Nur Afifi, M. App. Ling, Ph. D.

Keywords: Blended Learning, Challenges, Strategies, Benefits.

Blended learning is a new method considered more effective in teaching students during the pandemic than distance learning. Because it combines both online and offline meetings, this research explores the implementation of blended learning, the challenges teachers and students face, the strategies teachers use when teaching with blended learning, and the benefits teachers and students feel with blended learning at MTs Darul Hikmah Jabon.

The method used is a field research method with a descriptive qualitative approach. Data collection is done through observation, interviews, questionnaires, and documentation. The informant determination technique uses snowball sampling with the principal's research informant, the deputy principal for academics, two English language teachers who carry out Blended Learning, and students.

The results showed three stages of Blended Learning Implementation: planning step by designing program objectives, preparing facilities and infrastructure, preparing learning schedules, preparing evaluation and socialization tools. The implementation includes online learning in asynchronously Independent, face-to-face learning, and there are picket teachers as student learning control. The learning system evaluation stages include teacher association activities/meetings held once a month and teacher and parent associations held once a semester. Teachers and students also face challenges applying blended learning, especially to reading narrative text. Student challenges such as the lack of vocabulary that students have, the methods and applications that teachers use when teaching online have not been maximized, and meetings in the class are hindered by minimal hours. While the teacher's challenge is the student's low motivation, and the students do not understand the material. To overcome these challenges, teachers apply several strategies that are considered effective in helping to improve students' reading ability to narrative texts, such as bottom-up reading strategies and self-vocabulary collection. These strategies were applied in the offline class. So that it can provide benefits for students. The benefits are students feel the rising academic grades. For teachers to feel freer to convey materials and control students.
