

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

In this chapter, it presents the conclusion of this research and the suggestion from the researcher which it correlates to this research and hopefully can give contribution to education especially in literature.

A. Conclusion

Based on the Chapter IV, the researcher concluded the result of speech function used by the main character in “Maleficent” movie by from the each formulation of the problem.

1. There are six types of speech function used by Maleficent as the main character in “Maleficent” movie. They are 35 percent of expressive function, 22 percent of directive function, 31 percent of referential function, 7 percent of metalinguistic function, 1 percent of poetic function, and 4 percent of phatic function.
2. The most dominant type of speech function used by Maleficent as the main character in “Maleficent” movie is expressive function that shows 35 percent. It means that Maleficent expresses many feelings or emotions in to produce an utterance than others. Maleficent produces expressive function about twenty times.

B. Suggestion

According to the conclusion above, the researcher would like to propose some suggestion as follows:

1. Speech function are important to be learned by English Language students. From this research, the researcher recommends the English Language students to find out and perceive the speech function because it will be better for the students to learn farther about speech function so there will not be misunderstanding concerning those functions.
2. For future research, the researcher recommends to concentrate on specific varieties of speech function theory in conduct a research. It will be more deeply and wide research.
