

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

This chapter explains conclusion and suggestion of this research. The conclusion contains the resume of all research findings and discussions in the previous chapters. The suggestion contains the importance of proposition for the next researchers.

A. Conclusions

This thesis analyzes illocutionary act in King Charles III's first speech as King of England and the commonwealth countries. The aim of this analysis is to know the kinds of illocutionary acts that were used in King Charles III's speech. The context of the utterance is performed, and the interpretation of speech act achieved from understanding the context. In this research uses qualitative-descriptive method.

The researcher found 43 utterances in King Charles III's first speech as King of England and the commonwealth countries. As the result, the researcher found four types of illocutionary acts. Those are assertive, commissive, expressive and declaration.

B. Suggestions

After analyzing the data of speech acts by King Charles III, the writer hopes that the stake holder such as below:

For the researchers that are interested in discourse analysis of the linguistics study, not only speech but also the other media as an object such as conversations, movie can also be the object of the other discourse analysis of the linguistics study.

Based on the result of this research in the analysis of speech acts, it can be suggested that this research can be discussed from other topics by the next researcher, for example by using other theory. It will be more attractive to compare one theory speech acts to other theory.